U.S. Court of Appeals Judge Myron Bright tells his story, from his early life growing up as the son of Russian immigrants in Eveleth, Minnesota to his ascension to service as a federal judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit. Highlights include:

“Here is the amazing story of a great American, a soldier, lawyer, judge and teacher, told with the wisdom of almost a century of life. This book brings that love of our American system of justice and compassionate idealism to a broader audience.”
